"Narration is a monologue method of oral communication, which is used to present a phenomenon, event, process, person, object in a perceptual way."

It is used to convey descriptive, specific information. It mobilizes the imagination and emotions of the students.

A módszerrel kapcsolatos kihívások, buktatók és azok kezelése

Narration should be experiential.

Narration is an emotionally rich method of communication, as a result of which students experience events, phenomena and processes through the mobilization of their imagination, and become part of them. (Lappints, 1997; Russian, 1987; Babansky, 1985: 85-88.)

Can be applied for all ages.

"With this method, we primarily communicate the properties that can be perceived by the senses, so the description is quite specific: the information contained in it can be easily perceived by anyone who has an idea of its properties (e.g., shape, color, weight)." (Orosz, 1987: 117)
